

By Design

The Shaping of Nashville's Public Schools

WATCH GUIDE

About the Film

By Design: The Shaping of Nashville's Public Schools examines historical moments of public schooling in Nashville and the effects of city policies and community priorities. In making the film, NPEF collaborated with education experts, leading historians, community and state leaders, and students from defining moments in Nashville's public school history.

The goal of the documentary is to educate city leaders and the community about how public policy formed the basis for the education system we know in Nashville today in order to stimulate community-wide conversations about collective solutions for a better system where all students thrive.

How to Use this Guide

The purpose of this guide is to provide support for viewers to have a reflective and solutions-driven discussion after watching By Design: The Shaping of Nashville's Public Schools. We encourage you to host a viewing event with your friends, families, coworkers, and others in your community and use the questions on the next page as a starting point to guide your conversation.

What to do next

1 Let us know how it went!

Post a picture of your event on social media using the hashtag

#ByDesignFilm

2 Share your opinion!

Take our brief survey here:

3 Ready for the next step?

Download our Action Guide here:

We encourage you and your audience to engage in a robust conversation about how public schools were designed through the lens of historic government policies and struggles for resource equity and access to opportunity. Screening the documentary in an intimate setting allows your colleagues and friends to grapple with hard conversations about race, class, and politics. While there may be sticking points in post-screening discussions, we encourage you to provide a safe space for diverse perspectives to be heard and acknowledge these challenges are not easily resolved.

Nashville
Public Education
FOUNDATION

www.nashvillepef.org
info@nashvillepef.org
June 2021

WATCH GUIDE

1

What were your aha's from the film?

2

What moments in the film could you relate to based on your own experiences?

3

Prior to viewing 'By Design: The Shaping of Nashville's Public Schools,' what was your opinion of Nashville's public schools? What influenced your opinion?

4

Why do you think the film was named 'By Design: The Shaping of Nashville's Public Schools'?

5

The role of urban renewal in our city's history is complex. Discuss the tension between a city growing its economy and supporting the needs of all its residents.

6

In the film, Dr. Ansley Erickson states,

"Americans have been really interested in putting huge agendas on schools, saying schools will fix social problems. They'll fix segregation...fix health crises...create economic mobility. And we should notice that our investments in schools to achieve these goals has almost been smaller than the investments in these big systems that generate the inequality around us."

Do you agree or disagree?

7

Who shares in the responsibility for ensuring all of our children are thriving in schools?